NEAR-NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

To the lady first correctly guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to the Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

The winner of last week's contest was Miss Isabelle Langdon, the subject of the sketch being W. F. Goodrich.

He feels his way through life with unerring intuition. He does not see, but he can direct your steps if you are a stranger. He is a blonde, square-jawed, with ineffable good humor. He holds the keys to your emotions, and when he touches them you are glad, or sad, as his humor moves you. He not only executes the musical conceptions of others, he creates music from the material of which his soul is made. Handicapped with earth's sorest affliction, he asks no aid, seeks no sympathy, but banishes gloom with his cheerful smile, wins his own way with happy independence. Shaming us who, whole, make mountains of our molehills of petty misfortunes, he is setting a high example of fortitude and thrilling our better beings with his living melody.

Today, by courtesy of the Athletic Bowling Club, we offer Herman Langstadt's "Memoirs," as they appeared in "The Germania Rundschau."

Foreword by Mr. Langstadt
I said it, but I didn't say it. I told the Editor that the same sense, under different talk. I had read it, and it listens like Otto Rosbach, but it isn't only by. By golly, the editor he is a great speaker. You got a little more something, and he makes a great spiel. If you tell it to him, he makes it upside down, but if it is the der truth and he makes it a lie, der gott believe him. Vat I said was from the old times some leedle stuff ven friends made fun, but now it stands on the paper like der president's message. If I knew it was for print, I would 'at it, but now it is too late. Vat you give is maybe, but vat you see is gone. Ven I talk, der editor listen, but I don't put nothing down, so I think we just vat you call it gossip. But he got it all in der head, like what you see he writes. Der editor is like der lango—you can't dell vat he is doing.

These recollections of the doings of Germania will be confined to incidents of a personal nature, rather than deal with the history of the society. To me they are pleasant memories, and the people they bring to mind were not only good fellows, but men of affairs whose work has made much of the important history of La Crosse. Necessarily I must jumble, for to fix the dates of those little happenings which come with laughter into the "lighter vein" is not easy.

The German Actors.
One of the important features of the early-day Germania was its theater, in which local talent did much to furnish amusement for the community. This is vividly in my mind, because I was frequently invited to participate.

I recall one triumph as a thespian way back in the 70's, when at a masquerade Mrs. Rehfuess and myself impersonated the happy couple at a golden wedding. Carl Kurtz, then officered as the minister, and as judge of the contests Col. G. W. Woodward awarded us a family album. You see, the trophy was an embarrassing one, as the lady and I would not well keep it together, and it wasn't a suitable thing to divide.

This masquerade was right after the first appearance of the salvation army in La Crosse, and the central feature was a number of the social elite dressed in salvation togs and holding a street meeting.

ter was really great as "Gretchen," while Bill Linker's impersonation of "Faust" was of professional merit, and as "Mephisto" Dr. Hagne was immensely clever. John Schultz and Fred Storch, both wonderful singers, were also popular favorites.

The Tots at Play.
My son, Moritz represented Ole Bull in a fancy dress masquerade, and my daughter, Mrs. Waters, was made up as Paulina Tucker, the famous singer. Moritz, I think, gave a very creditable account of himself on the violin, although he was but seven years old, and he and "Paulina" were an interesting picture as they led the grand march on that occasion. The society folk had borrowed all the jewels in town for the little girl, and she was ablaze with several thousand dollars worth of diamonds as she preceded the grown-ups through the figures of the dance.

That "Pop"
Nobody attempts to talk of old times without mentioning Dr. Otilie. He was a splendid fellow, big and big-hearted. I recall how on one occasion the doctor became much provoked by a new janitor, a fellow who had been in this country but a few weeks. Dr. Otilie, one evening, asked the fellow to bring him a pop, meaning a small bottle of soda. The fellow left his side, and was not seen for a half an hour. Then he reappeared, bringing the doctor a large plate of thin dough.

You see, in German "pop" means paste made of flour and water, such as book binders use, and the janitor had gone home and had his wife make him the paste.

Dr. Otilie's Fight.
I must tell you about the terrible struggle in which Dr. Otilie fought single handed for his life in a dark room in the dead of night.

Ben Ott had been to a turkey raffle, and had won two turkeys. On the way home, about one o'clock, it occurred to him how fine it would be to give one of the birds to the doctor. He pounded on the door, and the hesitation which Dr. Otilie showed in opening the window to ask who was there gave Ben a hunch to play a joke on his friend. So, in a stage whisper, to disguise his voice, he assured Dr. Otilie he was a friend and that it was vastly important that he be given an immediate interview.

Dr. Otilie came down. He brought no light, for in those days the electric switch was unknown, and a light meant matches and kerosene and all the consequent bother. Cautiously he opened the door.

The minute Dr. Otilie's head appeared in the slightly opened door, Mr. Ott thrust a turkey into his face and letting go the bird at the same time he gave a powerful shove, sent turkey and man sprawling back into the blackness of the room.

"Swat! Bang! Thud!"
Dr. Otilie started by hanging an uppercut on that surprised turkey. Then he clinched with the flapping bird, and both fell to the floor together, the doctor striking and kicking viciously. He stumbled to his feet, still hitting out wickedly, and the confused turkey flapped into his face from a table top where it had landed. Dr. Otilie again grappled with his antagonist, and in the melee fell upon it with a 250 pound thump.

That ended the fight, and all the good doctor got out of Ben Ott's gift was a little turkey hash.

Judge Steinlein's Predicament.
There are good stories about most of the old timers. Perhaps the best one on Judge Steinlein was about the time he climbed a tree in Eber's Coulee. We were having a picnic there, and the ladies had accompanied us. We were doing running, jumping and climbing stunts, like a lot of boys. The Judge climbed the tree, and called us to witness his prowess, because he wanted to shine before the ladies. We all gathered about to admire him, and while the audience was applauding, the jurist slipped and tore his trousers. He had to move the picnic away until he climbed down, and then he had to sit in the bushes while we went to a farm house and borrowed some overalls for him.

The Charter Members.
There are only four charter members alive now, so far as I know. John Krueger, who lives on the North side; August Wehausen, and John Jung were charter members of the turnverein, which was organized in 1855; and George B. Rose is the only living charter member of the gesangverein, which was formed in 1856.

Louis Rose, a relative of George B. Rose, and Mr. Jung were great friends, and used to hunt much together. Mr. Jung now lives at 618 South Sixth street.

"LIVE ONES" RUSH TO ASSIST IN BIG FARMERS' BANQUET

Suggestion of H. Clay Evenson Eagerly Seized Upon by La Crosse Businessmen

MEETING AT ELKS' CLUB MONDAY

Plans Will Be Formulated and Arrangements Made for Entertainment of Rural Guests

MAY USE HIGH SCHOOL "GYM"

Originator of Idea Would Give Domestic Science Girls Chance to Show Ability

Ten men before ten o'clock was the record of the response to H. Clay Evenson's invitation to business men to join him in giving a banquet to farmers living in the vicinity of La Crosse. Other applications have been received, and Dr. Evenson has decided to extend the list to as many as desire to participate.

The first men to hand in their names were: Wm. Boyer, Charles Hoeschler, Joseph G. Dubraks, W. F. Adams, Henry Boehm, Peter Newberg, J. S. Arenz, Edward Dittman, Joseph Felber, R. B. Gelatt, F. H. Burgess, H. Clay Evenson.

A meeting to perfect plans will be held at the Elks' club Monday evening and Mr. Evenson especially requested that a statement be made to the effect that others who desire to join the enterprise telephone him, and that they be present at the meeting. Each participant is expected to contribute ten dollars, and ten farmers will be invited for each city member.

While it is not certain that that will be possible, Mr. Evenson suggests the idea of holding the banquet in the high school gymnasium, and having the domestic science class serve the dinner.

"This would give our country citizens a fine opportunity to learn what our high school is doing, and to comprehend its practical value," said Mr. Evenson.

Indications are that many more business men will join the enterprise and that it will prove to be a notable undertaking.

Luening, Charles and John Michel, C. F. Klein, John Ulrich, Sr., John Gund, Dr. Otilie, Leopold Wachenheimer, Henry Heil, John Jung, Nic Haerter and Marine, the German teacher.

Columns could be written about these men, both on the social and business side, but perhaps these little stories about their leisure moments will serve as well as would volumes to show the happy spirit of fellowship and fun in which they lived.

SAYS CITY CAN'T REGULATE TAXIS

Alderman Mahoney Claims that Ordinance Introduced Last Night Is Illegal

PROVIDES FOR LICENSE AND BOND

$25 Fee and Bond of $500 to Be Required Under Terms of the Proposed Law

An ordinance for the regulation of taxicabs operating in the city, providing for the creation of a board of registry, requiring a $25 license fee and a $500 bond as insurance against injury to pedestrians, and fixing the tariffs to be charged, was introduced and given its first reading at the meeting of the common council last night. Alderman and W. Mahoney said today that the ordinance is illegal, and even if passed will be void because it violates the state laws governing automobiles.

Following the reading of the proposed ordinance governing taxicab traffic last night Alderman Mahoney moved to table the ordinance but this was defeated.

Mr. Mahoney bases his opinion of the illegality of the ordinance on a clause in the new state laws which provides that "no city, village, town or county shall have the power to enact, pass or enforce any ordinance, rule or resolution requiring local registration."

Roeligg Favors Law
Alderman Roeligg rallied to the support of the proposed ordinance last night following the motion for tabling, declaring that it is similar to that of all large cities and that it is an absolute necessity if La Crosse is to have its taxicab business conducted in a proper manner. The ordinance will come up for second reading at the next meeting of the council.

The chief provisions of the ordinance as introduced are as follows: All automobiles for hire, whether for carrying passengers or freight, must be licensed.

Requirements for license shall be as follows: The application must be accompanied by a $1 application fee; a license fee of $25 per car must be paid by applicant; the applicant must be a citizen of the United States, of good character and 21 years of age; a joint bond for $500 must be filed with the city clerk as insurance against injury to pedestrians through negligent driving, or applicant if using more than one such car and less than five can file a single bond for $1,500. The mayor can revoke license for cause.

Applicants must pass an examination before the board of registry, consisting of the chief of police, superintendent of parks and the city clerk. The members of the board shall receive no compensation for their services.

Following are the regulations governing taxicab and transfer car traffic by license holders: Driver must wear a permit badge on his coat in plain sight; no driver may solicit patronage; all licensed drivers must carry all persons who are not of an objectionable character; all drivers must carry a rate card.

Sets Rates
The rates for taxi-hire shall be as follows: In six passenger cars for two passengers one mile or less, $1; fifty cents additional for each additional passenger for the first mile; for each additional mile fifty cents regardless of the number of passengers carried; no charge for children under five years when accompanied by adults; half fare for children under fourteen and over five when accompanied by adults. Drivers can charge for return trip when hired by the hour regardless of whether or not the passengers return.

The rates for five passenger cars are slightly lower.

SENDS HANNAN ON AHEAD
How much interest Senator La Follette is taking in the Morris campaign can be seen by the fact that he has sent John Hannan, his private secretary, here to see that the fight for Morris is started at once and that there is no more lagging in the contest. Another portion of the mission of Mr. Hannan here is to look into the republican gubernatorial situation, and it is said that there will be a prompt suppression of talk for the reason that Senator La Follette does not desire the gubernatorial situation shall be complicated any more than it is at the present time.

TRUST BILL HEARINGS END
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Chairman Adamson of the house interstate commerce committee announced today that he will hold no further hearings on the administration trust measure before his committee. He expected that the Covington subcommittee would be ready to report in a few days on the re-drafted bill to create a federal trade commission.

LA FOLLETTE TO AID MORRIS FOR U.S. SENATOR SEAT

Will Take the Stump in Behalf of Lieut. Governor and Will Tour Entire State

LETTERS TELL OF POSITIVE PLAN

Coming Back to Wisconsin as Soon as Congress Adjourns and Will Engage Entire Fight

HIS SECRETARY ALREADY HERE

Col. Hannan in Madison and Is Making Preparations for Campaign that Will Startle the State

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 28.—The Madison staff correspondent for the Milwaukee Daily News writes that, without doubt, Senator Robert M. La Follette will take an active part in the campaign in this state. While he will make no distinctions as between gubernatorial candidates who have previously been La Follette men, which means that if the candidates for the republican nomination for governor are Speaker Mer. lin Hull of the assembly and William H. Hutton, Mr. La Follette will probably speak well of both of them in his addresses to the Wisconsin public during the coming campaign, he intends taking the stump against Gov. McGovern and making the fight against the governor's nomination for United States senator a personal one.

La Follette Coming Home
Letters have been received in this city since Lieut. Gov. Morris has his conference with Senator La Follette in Washington which announce positively that Senator La Follette intends making the fight against Gov. McGovern in favor of Mr. Morris a public battle and one which will echo from one end of the state to the other.

It is said the senator will hurry home from Washington just as soon as congress adjourns, and from that time on campaign this state against Gov. McGovern. The inference is given in these letters that the senator does not intend to allow any grass to grow under his feet in the battle and it is also shown very plainly that he plans to make the cause of Morris a personal one and make the fight a La Follette fight against Gov. McGovern.

No hint of any change of candidates is given in the letter and the tenor of the message is to the effect that Senator La Follette will make his fight solely on the basis of Lieut. Gov. Morris' candidacy and that there will be no change in front on his part so far as the candidacy of Mr. Morris is concerned.

More than this, the senator will make a demand that no La Follette man give support to Gov. McGovern and from this time on it is his expectation that every La Follette man in this state will take up the cudgels in favor of Morris' candidacy.

Plans Thorough Campaign
The Morris campaign from now on will therefore probably assume a far more active front. It is said Senator La Follette expects to make a very thorough campaign of Wisconsin previous to the primary election and friends of Lieut. Gov. Morris here say that from July 1 on the Morris campaign against Gov. McGovern will be practically under the personal direction of Senator La Follette.

The orders from Washington which have now come in the Morris campaign will probably inject a good deal of vigor into that campaign and from now on there will probably not be any mutterings by firm La Follette followers against the candidacy of Mr. Morris. There are even hints that if possible Senator La Follette will make a flying trip to Wisconsin early in May to confer with the La Follette men in regard to the campaign being made for Lieut. Gov. Morris.

SENDS HANNAN ON AHEAD
How much interest Senator La Follette is taking in the Morris campaign can be seen by the fact that he has sent John Hannan, his private secretary, here to see that the fight for Morris is started at once and that there is no more lagging in the contest. Another portion of the mission of Mr. Hannan here is to look into the republican gubernatorial situation, and it is said that there will be a prompt suppression of talk for the reason that Senator La Follette does not desire the gubernatorial situation shall be complicated any more than it is at the present time.

Fiery Attitude of Texas Governor Keeps Bryan on the Anxious Seat

CLAIM VERGARA WAS A MEXICAN

This Government Refuses to Be Satisfied with that Explanation of Execution

BY JOHN E. NEVIN
(Staff Correspondent of the United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The constitutionalist leaders in northern Mexico are willing to pay money damages for the death of William S. Benton. While defending Villa's action in executing the British rancher, word reached here unofficially today that Carranza and his chief advisers would willingly compensate the widow should England indicate that such action would aid in closing the incident. But it is stated from a high British source, unless it is found that Villa's original story of self defense or after a court martial is true, a monetary recompense cannot be considered.

Demand Guarantees

Two peremptory demands concerning examination of the body have been sent to Villa. The first is that he set forth in writing how complete an examination he will permit of the body. The second is that he agree to safeguard the party and convince General Hugh Scott at El Paso that he is in a position to make the latter promise good.

Meanwhile the state department is bending every effort to get satisfaction in the case of Clemente Vergara, the American rancher slain near Hidalgo. Charge O'Shaughnessy has received from Consul Garret, who investigated the killing, the names of the men he considers responsible and the Mexican foreign office that they be arrested and punished. Later a claim for monetary damages will be filed. Huerta's contention that Vergara is a Mexican is denied here, Consul Garret having wired that he was an American citizen.

Officials admit the attitude assumed by Governor Colquitt of Texas is a decided menace to the entire Mexican situation. The governor's threats that he will send rangers into Mexico to protect Texans if necessary and that his men will not hesitate to shoot across the border, loomed up big today as a grave angle.

Colquitt Waits Answer

POPULAR MISS MACY

By A. MARIA CRAWFORD.

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Elizabeth Macy has a good time wherever she goes. I wonder why she is so popular?" Kitty Manir turned to Louise Richmond questioning. "She isn't pretty, is she?" They looked across the room where Elizabeth was holding court. She was laughingly dispensing her charms with an impartiality that would have delighted her mother if she could have seen her, and at the same time filled the hearts of the men about her with jealous curiosity. Her brown hair was parted and drawn low over a high forehead. Her eyes were blue as the sea in sunshine, and her white lace gown with its touches of sapphire velvet showed a slight, well modeled figure.

"Men like her because she is jolly," answered Louise. "She has my brother Fred in tow this afternoon, ye, we both know that he is deeply in love with Mary Gaines. He has probably quarreled with his lady fair and gone to Elizabeth for comfort. She adapts herself to the individual needs of the men about her. That is the secret of her popularity."

"I don't think so," argued Kitty Manir warmly. "Men don't always need comfort. Why, every man in this room just seems to gravitate toward her as if they were drawn that way."

"Well, she understands and discusses things with men from their own viewpoint."

"No, I think you are wrong again. A man doesn't care particularly for a woman with a masculine viewpoint unless he is very effeminate himself. A real man seeks the complement of his own thought in an essentially feminine woman."

"At any rate, I won't concede the point that men love Elizabeth. She has a host of friends, but mighty few lovers. Why don't she marry if men love her so?"

"What a question, Louise! I suppose she is waiting for the right man as I am now. Here comes Dick. I'll see you again."

"You know I had an idea that Mrs. Martin was giving this big party to announce her visitor's engagement to Peter," said Sidney Wilton to Elizabeth.

"I never thought of that," returned the girl. "The fact is, I never thought of Peter Martin wanting anything."

"He certainly has everything but a wife and he can pick and choose as he pleases."

"Peter is attractive, but it isn't just to the girls, Sidney, and certainly not gallant of you to say that he can pick and choose as he pleases. Here he comes now. Don't tease him. He'll tell us if he wants to know."

"This is my party, gentlemen, so for once I am a privileged character," laughed the tall host who had somehow managed to keep the spirit of happy youth in his brown eyes, although he was nearing forty. "I realize that it is criminal to carry off the belle of the party, and that is Elizabeth's good fortune wherever she goes, but I would like to steal her away for fifteen minutes, with your kind permission."

"A penalty for the deed!" cried Fred Richmond.

"All right! What is it?"

"It was half snowing and half raining, and the fairies were hoping it would get just a little colder," said daddy. "Then it would freeze, and the snowy rain would stick to the trees and make most beautiful crystals and icicles, and they could play the castle game."

"What was that?" asked Evelyn.

"Whenever there were icicles," continued daddy, "or pretty ice shapes the queen of the fairies would call the other fairies and say, 'Let's play the castle game.' Then the fairies would come from all around and get in their places for the castle game. The queen of the fairies would pretend that she was to have the castle taken for her. They made believe that the icicles were turrets and towers, back of which was a huge wandering castle in which were prisoners held captive. The queen of the fairies would pretend that she was the new queen of a land whose subjects had been badly treated. And she would begin her reign with no prisoners. So all the fairies who were her followers helped her to destroy all the turrets and towers of icicles. So then the castle could come down and the prisoners get away without being seen."

"Well, they got plenty of snowballs ready first and hit at the icicles with the snowballs. The biggest and strongest icicles which wouldn't come down with just the snowballs they would pull down."

"And, oh, such fun and laughing as they always do have over this game! The day I'm telling you about it did freeze, and they did commence their game of pulling down the castle. The playground they chose was in a quarry where there were plenty of icicles attached to the rocks."

"But behind an icicle what do you suppose they found? A little gray squirrel had jumped to a rocky cliff where he had seen some nuts stored away. After eating some of the nuts he had evidently felt so tired and sleepy that he had fallen asleep, for he was a very young squirrel. And as he slept he had grown suddenly very much colder, and the icicle by the rock on which he was had grown so thick that he couldn't pass it. So when the icicle was hit by a snowball and still did not fall down one of the fairies went up and pulled it down. You know fairies have a great deal of strength, even though they are so dainty and light."

"You can imagine the joy of the fairies when they found their imaginary game had really become true and that they had rescued a little squirrel. The squirrel was very cold, but he'd kept somewhat warm sleeping, and he soon revived by jumping around. He was so grateful to the fairies for saving his life that he invited them to the squirrel's nest nut party."

do you mean?"

"Well, you never told me you loved me and I was so tired waiting for you."

There was another waiting while Peter motioned the butler out and took the capital of his own waiting with interest added from the lovely flushed face of the girl.

"You were so popular," began Peter, "that I didn't dare."

"Jealousy makes poor bait for you, doesn't it?" demanded the girl. Peter had his chair moved around by Elizabeth. Even the round mahogany table put too great a distance between them, he said.

"Is this your favorite kind of cake?" asked Elizabeth when the dessert was served. And when he answered in the affirmative, she added, "I'll get your mother to teach me how to make it."

It was an illuminating remark to the old butler. It was an unmistakable announcement.

If you say the other fellow won't listen to reason, you mean he won't listen to you; is it not so?"

"Why, that is your place."

"Yes, but it's your face that Peter wants to see three times a day. Will you two excuse me until time for coffee? The party has tired me so. Make him happy for my sake," she whispered to the girl. "He loves you so."

She was gone before either of them could find anything to say. Mother knows that I love you, Elizabeth, although I have no right to tell you now," said Peter, when he had found his voice. "Sidney is a lucky fellow."

Elizabeth's heart seemed to hold a bird that was singing a lilting love song. "You didn't ask me what kind of an engagement there was between Sidney and myself. It is to play golf."

"Elizabeth!" Peter was out of his chair and bending over her. "What

OH! LOOK WHO'S HERE!
 It is an amusing confession of their own "in-badness" that stalwarts defend the "tax protest" meetings against the damning charge that they are inspired by stalwart influences. However, it is the old story of the ostrich in hiding.
 Today we thank the Beloit Daily News for an interesting contribution to the literature of this debate, in the form of a letter from Emanuel Philipp, of Milwaukee, showing his instrumentality in these country "protest meetings." The letter follows:

"February 19, 1914.
 My Dear Sir:
 "You are, of course, aware that there is much dissatisfaction in this state now, with the present administration in particular and with the element generally who are responsible for it. I believe it is fair to say that if the elections that are due next fall were held now, the so-called progressive element of the state would not be able to elect a single officer. The sentiment against high taxes and all the complaints that are associated with it has been fairly expressed in a county convention that was recently held in Lafayette county. Without any effort on the part of any person who is interested in politics the people of that county met in convention at Darlington, and passed strong resolutions condemning the present administration and its extravagant policies, and demanded, among other things, a state convention to which they have elected delegates. I understand that other county conventions are being arranged.

"I am frequently asked what is going to be done in the state this fall, and whether the conservative element will make another effort to nominate a ticket. I would like to have you write me at your earliest convenience whether in your opinion a move of that kind should be made, and whether in your judgment a county convention such as has been held in Lafayette county could be called in your county to give expression to the sentiment existing among the people, also whether there is a demand for a state convention.
 "Kindly write me as fully as you wish stating your views frankly and what you believe should be done.
 "Yours truly,
 (Signed) "E. L. PHILIPP."

It will not be easy, in future, for Mr. Philipp to deny that he has had to do with these "country protests." And who is Emanuel Philipp? We have to tell you; it seems like giving away his life's great political secret. But stern duty commands us: Mr. Philipp is the head, front and counter, and the brains of the stalwart movement in this state. All this in spite of the fact that he is a most delightful gentleman—a man to fall in love with. He was the chief organizer and leading spirit in the old, ill-famed and ill-fated "Eleventh Story League" that organized the "katy-dids" in the good old days of such immaculate statesmen as "Dan" Starky, Bissel and Lodi—rest their political souls. He was with the Tories who supported Dave Rose for governor, and was a delegate to the Mark Hanna national convention that overruled the supreme court and threw the LaFollette delegates into the street.

 It is that same Mr. Philipp, who began his reactionary career by heading the original fight against LaFollette's primary law, who is now so solicitous about the "poor man's taxes."

PETTIFOGGING THE CASE

"Critics of the University of Wisconsin who are disposed to take view that this great educational institution is gradually usurping the functions of the state government will probably be confirmed in their opinion by the statement contained in a news item published yesterday. Dispatches from La Crosse are authority for the information that at a meeting attended by five hundred farmers' wives from that section of the state an expert from the state university instructed those present how to reduce millinery bills by fixing over their old hats so they would look like new headpieces, the cost of the operation being only a trifle."

The foregoing is from the Green Bay Gazette. It is obviously unfair. The farmers' meeting to which the Gazette refers occupied itself, with the assistance of "university experts," with the following subjects:

- Dairying—how to improve cows; increase production of milk; and feeding properly at the lowest cost.
- Methods of preserving land fertility, killing weeds and increasing crop yields.
- Lecture on food values of food articles.
- Corn, poultry and horse shows.

Would it not have been a more worthy way for the Gazette to have commented upon these important topics, rather than seek to belittle a work that has enriched the farmers by millions, by attempting to create the impression that a modest domestic discussion was its major purpose?

Akin to this was Mr. Hood's characterization of the domestic science department of the university as a "pancake school." He complained of the $100,000 investment for THE ENTIRE STATE. In recognition of the practical value of this sort of education a La Crosse citizen recently gave the little city of La Crosse a $100,000 building. What a gulf between these two men!

"WHO'S WHO AND WHY"

Respectfully we submit for the consideration of republicans who fought John J. Esch as a "standpatter" sometime since, the spectacle of The Chicago Tribune and The Milwaukee Sentinel attacking that statesman as a socialist because of his support of the "trade-bills" drawn to prevent unfair competition. Joe Davies, commissioner of corporations, comes in with Mr. Esch for castigation. Which goes to show that the papers mentioned are no respecters of persons, but stand squarely on principle. Our monopolistic friends still insist that "You gotta quit kicking my dawg aroun'!"

"AND BLAME THE COMMISSIONER"

Franklin P. Adams, The Sentinel humorist of "The Conning Tower," recently perpetrated the following:
 "The north wind doth blow, and we shall have snow.
 And what will the N'Yawker do then, poor thing?
 He'll sit in a train, and mutter in vain.
 And blame the Commissioner then, poor thing!"

Why can't The Sentinel keep serious concerns of state politics out of its funny "colyum'?"

The "Dollar Dinner" of the board of trade must have for its apologist our old friend, "High Cost of Living."

CHAPTER I
East is East

It began somewhere in the middle of the world, between London which is the beginning and New York which is the end, where all things are east of the one and west of the other. To be precise, a forlorn landing on the west bank of the muddy turbulent Irrawaddy, remembered by man only so often as it was necessary for the flotilla boat to call for paddy, a visiting commissioner anxious to get away, or a family homeward-bound. Somewhere in the northeast was Mandalay, but lately known in romance, verse and song; somewhere in the southeast lay Prome, known only in guidebooks and time-tables; and farther south, Rangoon, sister to Singapore, the half-way house of the derelicts of the world. On the east side of the river, over there, was a semblance of civilization. That is to say, men wore white linen, avoided murder, and frequently paid their gambling debts. But on the west side stood wilderness, not the kind one reads about as being eventually conquered by white men; no, the real grim desolation, where the ax cuts but leaves no blaze, where the pioneer disappears and few or none follow. The pioneer has always been a successful pugilist, but in this part of Burma fate, out of pure admiration for the pygmy's gameness, decided to call the battle a draw. It was not the wilderness of the desert, of the jungle; rather the tragic hopeless state of a settlement that neither progressed, retarded, nor stood still.

Between the landing and the settlement itself there stretched a winding road, arid and treeless, perhaps two miles in length. It announced definitely that its end was futility. All this day long heavy bullock-carts had rattled empty back to the settlement. The dust hung like a fog above the road, not only for this day, but for all days between the big rains. Each night, however, the cold heavy dew drew it down, cooling but never congealing it. From under the first football the next day it rose again. When the gods, or the elements, or Providence, arranged the world as a fit habitation for man, India and Burma were made the dustbins. And as water finds its level, so will dust, earthly and human, the quick and the dead.

It was after five in the afternoon. The sun was sinking, lazily but swiftly; ribbons of scarlet, ribbons of rose, ribbons of violet, lay one upon the other. The sun possessed no definite circle; a great blinding radiance like metal pouring from the mouth of a blast-furnace. Along the road walked two men, phantom-like. One saw their heads dimly and still more dimly their bodies to the knees; of legs, there was nothing visible. Occasionally they stepped aside to permit some bullock-cart to pass. One of them swore, not with any evidence of temper, not viciously, but in a kind of mechanical protest, which, from long usage, had become a habit. He directed these epithets never at animate things, never at anything he could by mental or physical contest overcome. He swore at the dust, at the heat, at the wind, at the sun.

The other wayfarer, with the inherent patience of his blood, said nothing and waited, setting down the heavy kit-bag and the canvas valise (this own). When the way was free again he would sling the kit-bag and the valise over his shoulder and step back into the road. His turban, once white, was brown with dust and sweat. His khaki uniform was rent under the arm-pits, several buttons were gone; his stockings were rusty black, mottled with patches of brown skin; and the ragged canvas shoes spurted little spirals of dust as he walked. The British-Indian government had indulgently permitted him to proceed about his duties as guide and carrier under the cognomen of James Houghly, in honor of a father whose surname need not be written here, and in further honor of the river upon which, quite inconveniently one early morning, he had been born. For he was Eurasian; half European, half Indian, having his place twist heaven and hell, which is to say, nowhere. His father had died of a complication of bhong-drinking and opium-eating; and as a consequence, James was full of humorless imagination, spells of moodiness and outbursts of hilarious politics. Every native who acquires a facility in English immediately sets out to rescue India from the clutches of the British raj, occasional advancing so far as to send a bullet into some harmless individual in the Civil Service.

 James was faithful, willing and strong; and as a carrier of burdens, took uncomplainingly his place beside the tireless bullock and the elephant. He was a Methodist; why, no one could find lucid answer, since he ate no beef, drank from no common cup, smoked through his fist when he enjoyed a pipe, and never, assisted Warrington Sahib in his deadly pursuit of flies and mosquitoes. He was Hindu in all his acts save in his manner of entering temples; in this, the European blood kept his knees unbent. By dint of inquiry his master had learned that James looked upon his baptism and conversion in Methodism as a corporal would have looked upon the acquisition of a V. C. Twice, during fever and plague, he had saved his master's life. With the guilelessness of the Oriental he considered himself responsible for his master in all future times. Instead of paying off a debt he had acquired one. Treated as he was, kindly but always firmly, he would have surrendered his life cheerfully at the beck of the white man.

Warrington was an American. He was also one of those men who never held misfortune in contempt, whose outlook wherever it roamed was tolerant. He had patience for the weak, resolution for the strong, and a fearless amiability toward all. He was like the St. Bernard dog, very difficult to arouse. It is rather the way with all men who are strong mentally and physically. He was tall and broad and deep. Under the battered pith-helmet his face was as dark as the Eurasian's; but the eyes were blue, bright and small-pupilled, as they are with men who live out-of-doors, who are compelled of necessity to note things moving in the distances. The nose was large and well-defined. All framed in a tangle of blond beard and mustache, which, if anything, added to the general manliness of his appearance. He, too, wore khaki, but with the addition of tan riding-leggings, which had seen anything but rocking-horse service. The man was yellow from the top of his helmet to the soles of his shoes—outside. For the rest, he was a mystery, to James, to all who thought they knew him, and most of all to himself. A pariah, an outcast, a fugitive from the bloodless hand of the law; a gentleman born, once upon a time a clubman, college bred; a contradiction, a puzzle for which there was not any solution, not even in the hidden corners of the man's heart. His name wasn't Warrington; and he had rubbed elbows with the dregs of humanity, and still looked you straight in the eye because he had come through inferno without bringing any of the defiling pitch.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Back to Summerland
 It seems to me like I'd like to go
 Where bells don't ring nor whistles blow,
 Nor clocks don't strike, nor gongs don't sound,
 And I'd have stillness all around.

Not really stillness, but just the trees'
 Low whispering or the hum of bees,
 Or brooks' faint babbling over stones
 In strangely tangled tones.

Or maybe a cricket or katydid,
 Or the songs of birds in hedges hid,
 Or just some such sweet sounds as these
 To fill a tired heart with ease.

If 'tweren't for sight and sound and smell,
 I'd like a city pretty well,
 But when it comes to getting rest
 I like the country lots the best.

Sometimes it seems to me I must
 Just quit the city's din and dust
 And get out where the sky is blue,
 And say, now, how does it seem to you?
 —Eugene Field.

At An Advantage
 "Why is the weather so fascinating a topic of conversation?"
 "Well," replied Farmer Cornotose, "I suppose it's because it's one of the few subjects of general interest that you ain't supposed to read about in the Congressional Record before you can pretend to understand it."—Washington Star.

Danger on Every Hand
 "Oh, see the sunbeams dancing on the waves!" said the poetic girl.
 "Don't look!" exclaimed the severe woman. "How do we know they aren't dancing the tango or the turkey trot?"—Washington Star.

Shut That Window
 After spending the greater part of the evening with friends John decided that home was the place for him, and, arriving there, he elected to sleep in the front garden. Next morning, happening to look up, he saw his wife observing him from an open window. "Shut that window!" he yelled. "Do you want me to catch my death of cold?"

Neatly Caught
 Recently at a railway station a boy who was smoking a cigarette went up to the booking office and said "Half return to B—." "What?" exclaimed the booking clerk. "Who are you calling a kid? I'm fourteen," replied the lad impertinently. "Oh, are you? Full fare, please!"

How Many Left?
 "Now, Roddy," said the teacher, "if there were eleven sheep in a field and six jumped the fence, how many would there be left?" "None," replied Roddy. "Why, there wouldn't," persisted Roddy. "You may know arithmetic, but you don't know sheep."

Schoolboy Wisdom
 Answers given at the January examinations in one of the lower grades of a New Jersey school:

Q. Name three places of interest in the United States and tell why you would like to visit them.

A. New Jersey, because it has lots of nice things. California, because you could see Panama canal. Nyack, to see the moves. Tarrytown, because my aunt lives there. Hoboken, because it is an important county but the streets are noisy; you cannot sleep quiet as here, Chicago, because they take moving picture acts.

Q. Name some ways in which animals prepare for winter; for summer.

A. The cat prepares for summer in this way: She has kits and sheds her fur.

Q. Who was Peary? What did he do?

A. Peary was a brave man. He tried to get to the north pole. No one knows if he did or not. Peary is the one who discovered the north pole and some other man went to but they died to and Doctor Cook discovered the south pole and they saw big icebergs and they had something to eat to last them a few days.

Q. Tell something about lumbering.

Pat Read Both Sides

One of the bosses at Baldwin's locomotive works had to lay off an argumentative Irishman named Pat, so he saved discussion by putting the discharge in writing. The next day Pat was missing, but a week later the boss was passing through the shop and he saw him again at his lathe. Going up to the Irishman he demanded fiercely:
 "Didn't you get my letter?"
 "Yes, sur, Oi did," said Pat.
 "Did you read it?"
 "Shure, sur, Oi read it inside and on the inside yez said I was fired and on the outside yez said, 'Return to Baldwin's locomotive works in five days.'"

Caution.
 "Are you giving credit now?" asked the man who had returned to his old home. "No," answered the proprietor of the general store. "What has become of that old sign you had over the counter, 'No Trust'?" "I decided to take it down. I was afraid some of the corporations that supply me with goods would misunderstand it and take offense."

EVERYTHING==EXCEPT

BY WALTER GREGORY.

T was warm, even for late June. Outside the sun poured its heat from a cloudless sky. There was not enough breeze to stir the leaves. The white road wound away like some white-hot band.

Within the bungalow, with the shades drawn and a sense of coolness pervading the place, Helen Martin was softly playing the piano.

She had begun her favorite aria of all, when there came from the driveway without a strident chugging, the whirr of tires on the coarse gravel. Somebody landed heavily on the porch, the same somebody shouted a boisterous "Hello!"

The same somebody pounded loudly on the screen door, and before she could answer the summons, pulled it open and stepped into the hall with a cheerful:

"Anybody up yet in this quiet tomb?"

Helen flushed angrily as she saw Jimmy Smith, the big, young man who was staying at the Keiths.

"Oh, how could you!" she cried in vexation. "I was playing."

Jimmy Smith smiled a broad and engaging smile.

"You ought to be interrupted," said he severely. "The idea! Playing the piano such a morning as this. Fire on you! Come on for a little run in the car with me, will you?"

"I told you I was playing," she said, rather coldly. "And I was enjoying it immensely."

"Nonsense! Impossible. There isn't any music ever composed that is interesting such a day as this," he declared. "What were you playing, anyway?"

"I was playing the arias from 'Eulalie.' I love them!" she replied.

Mr. Smith pursed his lips. He was an extremely good-looking and wholesome young man. Also he had a rather charming manner when he chose to use it.

Helen Martin found herself continually saying these past few days: "No, young lady, Jimmy Smith is not the man for you. He is altogether too material; he cares too little for the things you like—music and dainty things."

"Eulalie," said Mr. Smith with a shrug. "That stuff is surely not worth bothering with today. Besides, those arias are hard to play properly. They take it out of you."

"I'm afraid we don't agree at all about 'Eulalie,'" she said frostily. "I am very fond of it. I think it is wonderful. And to think of an American doing work like that, and then they say we have no musicians here!"

"Neither 'Eulalie' and all composers," snapped he. "I'm going down for the morning mail. I was sure you'd want to go with me."

There was something very like boyish disappointment in his last words.

"O, well," she conceded, "if you're going to cry about it—"

"I am if you don't go," said he.

They had just entered a shady stretch of woods, when he slowed down the car and turned to her abruptly.

"Tell me," he said, "what sort of a man is your ideal?"

She did not immediately reply.

"I mean, what sort of a man must he be whom you marry?" he pursued.

"What nonsense," she sniffed.

"Well, tell me, just the same."

"O, he must be every inch a man, and as to his mental make up, well, I think I'd like him to be very gentle and fine and—O, very fond of music."

She saw him start. She fancied he winced. She was sure he had no more ear for music than a crow.

"People who are really, really fond of music are temperamental very often," he reminded her. "Apt to be fools when they are men. Awful to get along with and all that."

"I'd forgive him much if he really loved music. If we could play together and sing together," said she.

"Really?" he asked.

She fancied there was mockery in his tone.

"Really," she said severely.

It was late afternoon when there came a big box of flowers with a note.

"I've been thinking over the requirements you listed for me this morning," the note ran, "and I've got the unbounded nerve to think I fill them in some small ways. Yours ever, "The Jimmy Smith Boy."

Helen began to laugh. Then suddenly she stopped. Instead she flushed.

Then she had a quick idea. She would try him out. They were giving a concert for the hospital at Westport. It was to be an amazingly good concert. Singers and musicians from the opera in town were to comprise the program.

They were to play and sing music from 'Eulalie.' She would ask him to take her over. She would see how he behaved.

She dispatched the note and promptly at 7:15 the next evening, Jimmy Smith was at the step in his car.

"Really want to go over to that concert?" he asked. "There's a bully moon and—"

"We're going to the concert," said she. "They're going to render quite a bit of 'Eulalie.'"

"Drat 'Eulalie!'" he burst out. "I'm tired to death of it!"

She felt her heart contracting. Yet he was so—so nice, other ways! She was very unhappy during the remainder of the trip of Westport.

The concert was given in the Orpheum Theater at Westport. Mr. Smith seemed to be bored by it. Indeed, when it was about three-quarters over and Mme. Brahme was singing a wonderful song. Helen, glancing at him, was horrified to find him with bent head, sound asleep. A moment later a very audible snore induced her to nudge him into wakefulness.

"This settles it," she told herself. But although her decision was made, the girl's heart cried out against it. Jimmy Smith, with all his faults, was such a dear! Still a man who could sleep through that song—and snore.

The concert was finished. They moved together down the aisle toward the door. Helen had finally decided to stand by the decision her head had made.

They had nearly reached the door when some one came pushing after them.

"O, my dear, dear Meester Smit," so good, so vera good of you to come to hear your own work so poorly done by us here tonight?"

Helen turned and gasped. Mme. Brahme—the great Mme. Brahme—was clutching at Jimmy's sleeve, as he was smiling foolishly, like some little naughty child, caught in mischief, and looking at Helen out of the corners of his eyes.

He was still looking very sheepish as he presented her to Mme. Brahme.

"You should be so vera proud to know heem, my dear," said Madame Brahme. "Such a wonderful genius, and 'Eulalie' only his first work. He will far. And you (she turned to Jimmy) don't deserve to know such a pretty girl."

On the way home Jimmy slowed down the car sufficiently to slip off arm about the girl.

"I came down here to the Keiths to get away from it all. I was tired. My first name is Jim. It's my middle name I use for public. Can you ever forgive me?"

Helen began to laugh almost hysterically.

"Everything—everything!" she declared, suffering her head to be drawn to his shoulder, "except that snore he ended."

PRESIDENT WILSON
ENTERTAINS TAFT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Former President William Howard Taft broke bread with his successor, President Wilson, at luncheon in the White house today.

This was the first time since the Harrison administration that a president and his predecessor in office dined together in the White house.

Taft was invited today before the house judiciary committee to diagnose the congestion of courts and judicial procedure. Reforms of procedure in federal courts, simplification of forms and rules in the interest of more certain and quick justice was the dusty legal topic for discussion by the former president.

BABY'S FACE ONE
SORE WITH ECZEMA

Cried for Hours, Could Not Sleep.
Resinol Brought Rest and Cure.

Reading, Pa.—"My baby girl had eczema for over six months. It was painful and itching, she could not sleep day or night, she would scratch till blood and water would run down her neck. Then it burned her so she cried for hours at a time. The right side of her face was one sore and scab.

"I got the sample of Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment on a Saturday morning, and put them on, and put them on again in the afternoon and in the evening before I put her to bed, and she went to sleep and slept till next morning. I thought I was in heaven the first night, and by Monday the eczema was dried up so that all the scabs fell off. Resinol Soap and Ointment cured my baby." (Signed) Mrs. Wm. M. Fletcher, 544 So. 17th St., Aug. 21, 1912.

If you or any of your little ones are suffering from eczema, rash, tetter, ringworm, or other itching, burning skin eruption, there is only one better remedy than Resinol. PERKINS DENIES
HE'S FOR MONOPOLY

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Replying to assertions by Senator Borah of Idaho made in Columbus, Ohio, that the progressive party and he, personally, were in favor of only regulating monopolies, George W. Perkins is out here today with a challenge to the senator.

"Either you do not know what you are talking about," said Perkins, "or you are deliberately misleading the voters of the country. The platform of the progressive party does not stand for regulating monopoly. I am not in favor of monopoly nor the regulation of monopoly. You owe it to the voters of the country to retract your statement."

TAKE SODA FOR ACID STOMACH,
SOURNESS, GAS

A 10 grain Sodagen tablet, taken anytime, followed by a glass of water will instantly neutralize acidity; absorb gases, and sweeten the stomach, thus relieving indigestion without fail. Indigestion does not result from a lack of digestive juices as most folks believe, but from an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which retards digestion and starts food fermentation. Then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon producing a heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch up gas or have flatulence, heartburn or nausea.

Any pharmacist can supply a package of these 10 grain Sodagen tablets and thousands of stomach sufferers will be able to eat without dread after ridding the digestive organs of excess acid this way, says a noted authority who further states that this Anacid is entirely harmless, being composed of Soda, Magnesia and Calcium Carbonate U. S. P.

OPIUM

Morphine, Codeine, Heroin and Chloroform are powerful narcotics that benumb the nerves. In overdoses they are dangerous. They are the active ingredients in many cough remedies. If you wish to avoid them and want a cough cure that has cured thousands and yet is perfectly harmless because it contains none of these narcotics, get a bottle of Gray's Yerba Santa Cough Cure and watch yourself getting well. Equally good for young and old. Comes in 50c and $1.00 bottles at Reyschlag's Drug Store, 503 Main Street.

HYNNE-BENRUD

GRANITE COMPANY

Adds Valuable Property to Their Present Large Establishment.

The Hyenne-Benrud Granite company of this city, the well known manufacturers of monuments, has purchased the entire property and stock of the La Crosse Monumental works and are now in possession of the same.

This well known plant is located across from the entrance to the Oak Grove cemetery and it is the purpose of the present owners to continue the business and add to the already large stock of finished monuments and carry a larger selection of stock than has ever before been exhibited in this city, and nothing but the very best of granites and the latest designs will be carried in stock, and they are distributors for some of the world's best granite, among which is the celebrated Montello granite known as the hardest and most durable granite in the world today.

Both the plants of this concern will be operated to their full capacity and with their present facilities for the working and handling of granite and marble, they will be in position to turn out their work at the minimum and propose to give their customers the benefit and expect to always maintain their high standard of efficiency and their reputation of square dealing for which they are known.

Their plant on South Third street, near Cass, occupies a large magnificent building, which they built solely for their purpose, and all the latest labor saving machinery are installed, and in the near future they propose to remodel their cemetery plant so as to still further increase efficiency.

With their present facilities this company will have by far the largest establishment of its kind in the middle west. It is their purpose to re-incorporate at a capital of $50,000, and the president and manager, Mr. A. Hyne, claims to have enough orders on hand at this early date of the year to run at full capacity for many months, and with orders continually coming in, he says, the outlook for this year as a business getter is far beyond his expectations.

Fully appreciating the patronage that has been given to them in the past, and realizing the difficulty experienced by many, in the selection of a suitable memorial, they extend their service and experience to such in a most conscientious manner and will incorporate such artistic ideas as will make the memorial a thing of lasting beauty and co-operate with their customers to their lasting satisfaction, thereby making a friend of every customer.

Mr. H. A. Fischer, one of the members of this firm, has as sales manager charge of the sales of this company and will be glad at any time to call with a very fine line of designs and a lot of good ideas and knowledge of the business for the benefit of the purchaser of a monument or marker.

Mr. P. A. Benrud will have charge of the accounting and record department of the company as usual. Every member of this concern is an active one, and having grown up in this business you might say as these gentlemen have, there can be no doubt of their knowledge and experience in the monument business, and their experience will be used to the best interest of their trade and arranging their customers of the best that their money can buy in this line.—Advertisement.

SEE PHILIPP IN TAX CONVENTION

Owen, Crownhart and Olbrich Say that Milwaukee Stalwart Is Main-spring of Movement

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 28.—It is charged that there is a concerted political movement lying back of the series of county conventions called to protest against high taxes. In the opinion of Attorney General Walter C. Owen, Charles H. Crownhart and M. B. Olbrich, the mainspring of the movement is E. L. Philipp of Milwaukee, whose letter suggesting the calling of conventions has just been published here.

Reminiscent of 1910
"Mr. Philipp's letter is interesting," said Mr. Crownhart. "It reminds me of his 'telephone' convention in 1910, when his hand picked delegates met at Milwaukee in solemn convocation, resolved that La Follette should be defeated for senator. All the interests fell for the movement and sent in their checks. Mr. Taft sent a personal emissary to represent him at the convention. One hundred and fourteen thousand dollars was spent to convince the people that the big trusts could govern Wisconsin better than the people could govern themselves. The result—La Follette, 114,669 votes; Philipp's combine, 41,344 votes."

Footprints of Stalwarts
"Footprints," said Attorney General Owen. "Foot prints disclosing the sinister trial of those who have ever sought the goal of power, behind the blind of prejudice and misrepresentation. Mr. Philipp and his associates do not seek control of government for the purpose of reducing the tax burden. They desire the control of government for more personal and selfish reasons—reasons accounting for the embellishment of certain political letters which advertisements of the Erie railroad and Belle Telephone company."

"Political Curiosities"
"Every element of political opinion has the right to its opinion and the right to have that opinion heard," said Michael B. Olbrich. "No one objects to expression of opinion by the railroads or other special interest when those expressions are made frankly and openly and are the avowed utterances of particular interest. The gesticulations and denunciations of the mannikins of the man from Milwaukee are entitled to attention merely as political curiosities, and as such no doubt they will pass into limbo with their fellows, the Eleventh Story League and the telephone convention."

In December, 1886, she was united in marriage to Howard Teasdale by Rev. Dr. Crawford. Two sisters, Mrs. O'Leary of Minocqua, and Miss Etta Davis, were present during her last illness and death. (Continued from Page One) of Clemente Vergara, an American citizen.

That Vergara was shot and killed while in the custody of federal troops enroute to federal headquarters at Piedras Negras, Mexico, was the report made to the governor by Ranger Captain Sanders late yesterday.

Call Vergara Mexican
(By a United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 28.—The Mexican foreign ministry today asserted that Clemente Vergara, killed at Nuevo Laredo, was a Mexican citizen and declared the United States was without justification for demanding that General Huerta avenge the alleged murder.

One hundred federal soldiers of the garrison of Chihuahua, state of Guerrero, mutinied early today, killing the colonel of their regiment and delivering the town over to the constitutionalists.

El PASO, Texas, Feb. 28.—George C. Carothers, special agent of the state department, and Charles Percival, British vice consul at Galveston, are both here today and are manifesting no immediate intention of going to Chihuahua, Mexico, to investigate the execution of William S. Benton, a British subject.

Gustave Bauch, American, is still missing, but interest in his case has been overshadowed by the developments in connection with the Benton case.

Benton Affair Halts Attack
CHIHUAHUA, Mexico, Feb. 28.—The attack on Torreón, planned by General Francisco's constitutionalist forces is being held up by the investigation of the death of William S. Benton, British subject. Villa today expressed great disappointment over the failure of George C. Carothers, American representative, and Charles Percival, British vice consul, to come here and investigate the Benton matter.

Villa declared today reports of a breach between himself and General Carranza are false.

Big Bribe for Villa
NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—That Price McKinney, a rich Cleveland, Ohio, horseman, has offered $6,000,000 for the vast estates of the Terrazas family in Chihuahua, with $250,000 to General Villa if he will let the deal go through, is the statement of James Butler here today from Juarez. Butler and McKinney own the Juarez race track. Butler says when he left Mexico Villa seemed willing to let the deal be completed.

END FEUD WITH BUTTON COMPANY

Council Orders Procedure of Work Following Settlement of the Dispute

The long standing feud between the city and the Wisconsin Pearl Button company relative to boundary lines of the Black river and property rights, apparently came to an end last night when a resolution was adopted by the city council instructing the board of public works to proceed in rapping and pipe protection work under the direction of the city engineer.

An injunction was issued February 5th prohibiting the city from continuing work on the rapping of the south bank of the river near North Third street and the construction of a small dam below the pipes for pipe protection, action being taken by the Wisconsin Pearl Button company.

As the result of a conference between City Attorney J. E. Higbee and attorneys for the Wisconsin Pearl Button company, arrangements were made whereby the work could be continued without interference on the part of the Wisconsin Pearl Button company, if carried on under the direction of the city engineer.

Following the action of the council on this matter another resolution was adopted providing that the city engineer cause markers to be placed on the south boundary line of the river at this point.

Theater Regulations

Alderman Bert Smith brought up the question of improving conditions of the La Crosse theater last night by asking City Health Commissioner Dr. Furstman whether the management had complied with the orders issued by the health department regarding sanitation and fire protection.

In reply Dr. Furstman declared that while the orders have not been complied with several questions pertaining to the matter are now under advisement by the chief of police. Acting Mayor Torrance announced that he will take the matter up with Chief Webber today with the purpose in view of hurrying improvements.

Want Merchants' Aid

Following the introduction of a report and resolution by the light committee, providing for temporary repairs to the white way system to cost $95, general discussion followed during which Alderman Smith declared that permanent repairs would be necessary during the coming summer that would cost in the neighborhood of $2,000.

It was explained by members of the committee on lights that the permanent repairs could not be carried on until the frost was out of the ground.

Alderman Roellig favored the temporary repairs, saying that as the merchants had installed the white way system some of the burden of upkeep should fall upon them and that by having the temporary repairs done now the city could let the permanent repairs wait for three or four months in the hope that the merchants would take some action in the meantime toward paying part or all of the cost of permanent repairs. The resolution for temporary repairs was carried.

May Improve Causeway

Two resolutions affecting the improvement of the causeway were introduced, the first providing that the special street improvement committee work in conjunction with the county highway commissioner toward the repair of the road and the second providing for a sidewalk on the east side of the road from the Burlington tracks to the Erickson brewery.

The resolution to work with the county official on the improvement of the road was adopted and the resolution for the sidewalk was referred to the committee on streets and alleys.

Alderman Paul Mahoney read a brief report of the engineers on the progress of the new water plant and on the dismantling and removal of the pumps to the new plant.

Adopt Resolutions

The following resolutions were adopted: Providing for plans and specifications for a six inch water main on Thirteenth street from Madison to Cass; providing for remission of city's share (38 per cent) of the real estate tax on the city mission property; providing for plans and specifications for twelve inch sewer main on Fourth street between La Crosse and Vine streets; providing for an appropriation of $50 to assist in paying the salary of the visiting nurse; providing for postponement of action on the wagon bridge toll question; providing for instructions to the board of public works to procure information and prices of apparatus to drag the river for bodies.

Resolutions and reports were referred as follows:

Resolution for purchase of three cars of road oil referred to the committee on streets and alleys; report of streets and alleys committee on clearing Pine street from Front street west to the city limits, referred to the committee of the whole; resolution providing for the brick pavement of Wood street from Logan to Rublee, referred to the special street improvement committee; resolution for investigation of loss to city by delayed payments resulting in loss of discount, referred to special committee.

LA CROSSE BEATS OPPONENTS IN FIRST PART OF GAME BUT LATTER COME BACK AND GAIN VICTORY

The Sparta basketball team defeated the local quintet last evening by the score of 32 to 31. At the beginning of the first half the game seemed to be one sided for La Crosse, as the score at one time stood fourteen to two in favor of the local team. During the second half both teams scored the same number of points, thus leaving the final score in favor of Sparta. This is the first time this season that the local team has met defeat.

WIFE'S FATHER DISTURBS COURT

Rages at Son-in-law Who Killed His Daughter when Slayer Admits He Was Diseased

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Shouting "Damn him, damn him, I'll kill him," Robert Hosea, white haired father of Eleanor Hosea Ellis, threw Judge Pettit's court room in an uproar this afternoon when he sprang from his seat and advanced, with clenched hands, toward William Cheney Ellis, his daughter's slayer, on trial for his life.

Assistant State's Attorney Malato was questioning Ellis.

"You said at the coroner's inquest that she was the sweetest, purest woman alive, did you not?" asked Malato.

"I did," was the response, "and that was true."

"Yet you married her when you knew you were diseased?" queried Malato.

"I did," answered Ellis in a low voice. "A doctor examined me and said he thought there was no danger."

It was this sentence that excited Hosea. He was on his feet in an instant.

WISHART LEADS IN GRAND PRIX RACE

Cooper and Tetzlaff Forced to Quit by Engine Failure at Santa Monica

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 28.—A Fiat car driven by Teddy Tetzlaff leaped away from the starting line on the Santa Monica race course here at 10 a. m. today and the annual grand prix automobile race was on. Eighteen other drivers were sent away at intervals of fifteen seconds. All of the original entrants in the race started except the Mason car No. 5, William Carlson, driver, which won third place in the Vanderbilt cup race. A broken crank case disabled the car.

The first tragedy occurred early today when Paul S. Spege, a Los Angeles automobile dealer, was instantly killed by the overturning of his automobile in which he was speeding to the grand prix race.

At the end of the twenty-first lap Wishart was leading with Pullen, Anderson, Oldfield, De Palma and Marquis following in the order named. Cooper withdrew on account of valve trouble, and Tetzlaff was compelled to quit in the seventeenth with a broken cylinder.

RESORT WOMEN THREATEN LIFE

Denizens of St. Louis District to Be Closed Menace the Leader of Reform

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 28.—Women of the resorts have threatened the life of Mrs. F. H. Ingalls, president of the Woman's Protective league, instrumental in securing the order of the board of police commissioners closing the segregated district at midnight tonight.

By letter and by phone they have voiced their resentment at the end of the segregated policy. Enough threatening letters to fill a large waste paper basket have been received by Mrs. Ingalls and destroyed.

About twenty-five houses remained in operation last night. In these wild orgies marked the approach of the end. Singing mission workers attracted 200 young men and inmates who hooted and jeered until a not call was turned in.

CAN ENTER POINT WITHOUT "QUIZ"

The only thing that Emil Krause of this city has to do to enter West Point is to pass the physical test at Fort Snelling. His credentials from the local high school are sufficiently high that he need not take the educational test usually required of West Point candidates, according to a new ruling from Washington.

Mr. Krause is the son of Edward C. Krause, 1512 Mississippi street, and is a graduate of the normal school here. His nomination was sent in by Congressman John J. Esch. He has resigned his position as teacher in the grades of the Nelson Dewey school of Superior.

IMPOSTOR DUPES CHICAGO SOCIETY

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—"He certainly was a lovable fellow," was the comment today of numerous artists, literary folk and members of several of Chicago's first families, who feted and—what's more—loaned real money to a "Mr. Oliver," who represented himself to be one of the "South Bend Olivers" and got away with it for nine months.

Subscribing to funds to provide medals for worthy artists, purchasing a yacht for the "trifling sum of $60,000," contributing $10,000 for a Lipton challenge, and performing other deeds of unrivaled beneficence, the "Mr. Oliver," as yet unidentified, put himself into the good graces of Chicago Yacht club, the Chicago Automobile club, the Cliff Dwellers, officers of the Art institute and numerous society folk. His career suddenly terminated today, when Ralph Clarkson, artist, produced the real Joseph Oliver, Jr. The bogus "Mr. Oliver" is very much missing.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

EXPLAINS CASE IN MONOSYLLABLES

Crownhart Gives True Inwardness of Much Discussed Althoff Award

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 28.—So weary has the industrial commission become over the persistent misunderstanding of the supreme court's recent decision in the Minnie Althoff case that Chairman C. H. Crownhart today went into council with the newspaper men in the capitol and in words of one syllable explained the matter in detail.

"I apprehend," said Mr. Crownhart, "that a lot of people, including my brother members of the legal profession, hold a view of this decision that is absolutely tabular. Now, I want you newspaper fellows to listen: William Althoff, a street laborer employed by the city of Milwaukee, reported as usual to his ward foreman at 7:30 in the morning on May 31. His foreman gave him his instructions as to where he was to work. Althoff proceeded under these instructions, tripped and fell and received injuries that caused his death three months later. His only heir was Minnie, a daughter 8 years old. The city of Milwaukee, through its assistant city attorney, W. H. Timlin, Jr., contended that little Minnie had nothing coming to her under the workmen's compensation act. The commission thought differently and awarded her $2,138. The award was based largely on the section of law which says an employer is liable where, at the time of the accident, the employee is performing service growing out of and incidental to his employment. The supreme court sustained the industrial commission.

"There is absolutely no ground for the ridiculous statement that an employer is liable when a workman is injured while proceeding from his own doorstep to his place of employment."

OPEN CONFERENCE ON UNEMPLOYED

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—With delegates from nearly every state in the union attending the national conference on unemployed, which opened here yesterday, it appeared certain that some plan of alleviating conditions would be agreed upon and urgent recommendations for aid made to city or state governments and possibly to the national administration. Reports were received from a score of states during the morning session today. Although some of the speeches indicated that the situation growing out of the great number of unemployed men and women in the country had been exaggerated, it was never the less in crying need of attention.

THINK LOPEZ IS IN MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 28.—Ralph Lopez, Mexican bandit and murderer of six who escaped from hundreds of sheriffs' deputies surrounding a mine at Bingham, Utah, was reported today to have been seen in Minneapolis.

Moses Zimmerman, prominent horse merchant of Minneapolis, said today that Lopez applied to him for work last night. Zimmerman met Lopez in Denver a year ago and at that time told the Mexican he would give him work should he come here. Zimmerman said Lopez appeared last night and asked for work. He acted in a suspicious manner, keeping his back to the wall and closely scrutinizing everyone near him. Detectives are scouring the Twin Cities for him.

MUST BE OVER 16 TO DRIVE AN AUTO

New State Regulations for Motorists Are Received in the City Today

Nobody under the age of sixteen years will be permitted to drive an automobile or operate a motorcycle in Wisconsin during the coming season. This is the information contained in the annual bulletin of the secretary of state on automobile regulations, a copy of which was received here by County Highway Commissioner John Hintgen this morning.

Several other new changes regulating automobile traffic, which will go into effect this season are contained in the pamphlet, chief of which is the new speed limit law placing the maximum speed within the limits of any city or village at fifteen miles per hour and the maximum on country roads at twenty-five miles per hour. There has been no state law governing speed heretofore.

Another change in the rules is that providing that number plates can hereafter be transferred from one car to another upon payment of fifty cents to the secretary of state and the filing of a description of the new car with the secretary.

The license fee for automobile dealers has also been increased from $5 to $10. This will include four sets of number plates.

TINY BOY AND GIRL TO FEATURE BILL

Youthful prodigies will hold the place of honor at the Majestic theater starting next Sunday when La Petite Duo (Charles and Madeline Murray) will come here—their first engagement in the northwest and their first appearance in a small city.

These tiny entertainers dance the tango delightfully and sing charming songs, with style and manner which would be approved in adults. Charles is nine years of age and Madeline is barely seven. They have been on the stage for two years but not all the time, dividing their attention between their studies and their stage career.

"A Bad Bad Boy and a Good Good Girl" and "My Orchard is Short of a Peach Like You," are the two songs that Charles and Madeline Murray introduce to punctuate their dancing. The pair sing sweetly and get off the songs in the most delightful manner. They are precocious youngsters, undoubtedly the cleverest found in vaudeville. A tango number is one

REMARKABLE CASE of Mrs. HAM

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her Life and Sanity

Shamrock, Mo.—"I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before using your medicine. I had falling, inflammation and congestion, female weakness, pains in both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a place in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I certainly would have been in grave or in an asylum if your medicines had not saved me. But now I can work all day, sleep well at night, eat anything I want, have no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, fears and dreads are gone, my house, children and husband are no longer neglected, as I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your remedies, and all is pleasure and happiness in my home."

GOETZMAN DINES RETAIL GROCERS

Eighty-five Attend Big Banquet Spread by Listman Manager at Germania Last Night

"A royal entertainment" is the language with which a guest described the banquet tendered the retail grocers and his own business associates by A. L. Goetzman, manager of Listman Mill, at Germania hall last night.

The dinner was an elaborate one, selected with rare discrimination and served in excellent taste. Mr. Goetzman presided, and to his right and left respectively were seated J. B. Murray, president, and Harry Taggart, secretary of the Grocers' association.

In his pleasant way, his earnestness sprinkled with humor, Mr. Goetzman paid a high tribute to the city of his adoption. President Murray talked interestingly upon co-operation as the system has been worked out by the association, and Secretary Taggart discussed the organization's long fight in support of pure food laws.

The presence of Kreutz's La Crosse orchestra enhanced the pleasure of the evening, and solos by Ralph Toland were the musical feature. Singing by a pair of performers from the Majestic, piano solos by Walter Goetzinger and an acrobatic spectacle concluded the entertainment. Eighty-five guests participated.

FAVOR DE PALMA IN GRAND PRIX

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 28.—Final practice spins were taken today by the drivers entered in the grand prix automobile race scheduled to start on the Santa Monica course tomorrow morning. As the result of his victory in Vanderbilt cup race yesterday, which he won in the record breaking time of 3:53:41, Ralph De Palma, the great Italian driver, is the favorite. The game race made by Barney Oldfield who finished second after hanging at the rear wheels of the flying Italian for forty miles, made him also a strong contender.

Practically the same drivers entered in yesterday's race will contest tomorrow. The distance will be 403.248 miles.

English Hermit's Strange Life.
There died the other day, at the age of eighty-two, a hermit named Lewis, who for the last 20 years has existed on shellfish and lived in his covered trawler, beached at Lower Fishguard. He never varied his diet, except when shellfish was scarce, and then he substituted bread and cheese. To within two days of his death he was in robust health.—London Answers.

Hot for Grandmother

Marybell was delighted to find a beautiful morning after her prayer for good weather the night before. Hurrying to her grandmother she told how her prayer had been answered. Then the old lady asked her to pray that night for warm weather, so that a part of the rheumatism might be driven away. The little maiden knelt that night in sweetest supplication: "Dear God, bless mamma and papa, and make it hot for grandmother."—Orange Judd Farmer.

Case of Evolution

The heroes of Ireland, England and Scotland were all three brought to court, the Irishman charged with stealing a cart, the Englishman a horse, and the Scot a cow. The Scotchman was questioned as to where he got the cow, and he said he had it since it was a calf. The Englishman said that the horse was his since it was a foal. When the Irishman was questioned he felt somewhat embarrassed, but after a while he spoke up boldly: "Shure, yer honor, I have that ould cart since it was a wheelbarrow."

CHURCH NEWS

To Hold Christian Efficiency Congress

A Christian efficiency congress, the first of its kind to be held so far as known, is projected for New York in May next. It will aim to apply to church administration some of the principles now being put into industrial plants and into great administrative offices. Behind it are men's clubs in Episcopal churches, and it is essentially a laymen's enterprise, intended to develop work by Christian business and professional men. In the Episcopal church this winter men's clubs of various cities have been more active than ever. Boston clubs, in the Episcopal church alone, have more than 2,000 men in personal work. New York and Boston Episcopal laymen have just joined hands, and Buffalo, Pittsburgh and Brooklyn laymen have applied to be counted in as part of the new movement.

The methods which the proposed efficiency congress announces it will put forth relate to wholly new lines of work, and those that are peculiarly those of laymen. It is claimed there is no duplication with Brotherhood of St. Andrew or other existing organizations. Among the lines to be considered by the congress are publicity for Christ's cause, including the handling of Christian literature in various cities; the establishing of laymen's training schools; and the furnishing to churches of trained volunteer laymen who are known as method masters; the holding of annual church social weeks, an improvement upon the campaigns carried on two or three years ago by the laymen's missionary and the men and religion movements, and the searching out of laymen with leadership qualities and the locating of them in cities where needed as leaders in Christian work. A committee on the congress has just been named, with members from New England, southern and middle west cities.

Churches Want More Chaplains in Army

Churches are objecting strenuously to Secretary Daniels' latest proposal that the number of chaplains in the United States navy be increased by only twelve while forty welfare secretaries are to be provided for the protest is voiced by the Federal council, through its new Washington bureau that has Dr. H. K. Carroll at its head, and members of churches everywhere are urged by the council to write senate and house naval committee members registering their dissatisfaction.

Chaplains in the navy are no more numerous today with 67,000 enlisted men than they were years ago with 12,000 men. The council set out to have the number increased to 67, or a chaplain for each 1,000 men. Secretary Daniels urged six months ago that the government provide for forty chaplains and forty welfare secretaries. Now he is said to have abandoned the large chaplain increase but retained the secretary one. The objection from the churches is to the layman. They say there ought to be ministers.

The idea of welfare secretaries comes from the Y. M. C. A., but the association declares they had nothing to do with recommendation of the plan, and are not now pushing it. It seems to have been made by Secretary Daniels on his own account. Churches insist upon the full number of new chaplains, and add that after they have been provided welfare secretaries may also be provided if the government so decides. The welfare secretary plan in the navy started about three years ago, and two such secretaries, both furnished by the Y. M. C. A. are now on battleships. They do work similar to association secretaries on land. The proposition of twelve additional chaplains and forty welfare secretaries is now pending.

SUFFRAGETTE POINTERS

Mrs. Abigail Dodge says in her Milwaukee speech that taxation without representation is not tyranny, then why the revolutionary war? But of course she means that it is only women who must pay taxes and not vote. That is the point upon which the suffragists and the anti-suffragists disagree; the suffragists claiming that it is neither logical or reasonable that sex should have anything to do with taxation. She says women must influence the men to vote right. Poor women! the men must laugh at that. Instances where men are much influenced by their wives in their politics are so rare. She says women have all the rights they need. No disfranchised class is safe as the men will allow. She says only ten per cent of the women wish for the ballot, but admits that the anti-suffrage vote, though against their wishes in order to save their self respect. Too bad, but perhaps they will find that their self respect has increased instead of becoming less. Only their consistency may suffer a little by voting after they opposed it so long.

Russian Duma gives more rights to wives. "Oregon is well pleased for having given the ballot to women," writes Gov. West. "Women suffrage has accomplished much good for Idaho," writes Gov. John M. Haines. "Woman's suffrage in Wyoming is a success, and should be adopted in every state in the union," says Frank L. Houx, acting governor of Wyoming. "Women are responsible for the new philosophy of government—the philosophy that says human above material things," says Gov. Hiram Johnson, California. New England is waking up.

A little boy asked his father what is meant by a stag dinner. "Why, a dinner where only men are present," replied the parent.

"Then a nation where only men represent, is that what is meant by stagnation?"

POEMS

You Ought To Know

AN UNTIMELY THOUGHT
(By Thomas Bailey Aldrich)
I wonder what day of the week,
I wonder what month of the year—
Will it be midnight, or morning,
And who will bend over my bier?

What a hideous fancy to come
As I wait at the foot of the stair,
While she gives the last touch to her robe
Or sets the white rose in her hair.

As the carriage rolls down the dark street
The little wife laughs and makes cheer—
But . . . I wonder what day of the week,
I wonder what month of the year.

Misuse of Via.
A stroll through the shipping district gives many a wrench to the purist's soul. "In front of all the commission houses," he said, "I see bales and barrels labeled 'via boat' or 'via train.' Why does not somebody tell the shipping clerks that every time they write that they are insulting the English and every other language? 'Via' can be applied properly only to the place through which a parcel passes, not to the means of transportation."

Evidently He Was Jealous.
A strange plea for divorce was unsuccessfully put forward in the French courts recently by a man who complained that his wife had allowed her photographs to be used on picture postcards against his will.

U. S. INCOME TAX RULES FOR FARMER

Government Issues Guide for Agriculturist in Making His Return

CAN'T DEDUCT COST OF LIVING

Net Income Is Total Receipts Less Expenses of Keeping Up His Farm

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. — If a farmer is so fortunate as to have a net income of over $3,000 a year in case he is a bachelor, or $4,000 if married, he is subject to the income tax, and under the law each individual must make return to the internal revenue collector of his district on or before the first day of March if he has a net income of $3,000 or over ($2,500 for the ten months of 1913.) While the interest of most farmers in this subject is purely academic, the department of agriculture has received inquiries indicating that some wish to know just what is required of them under the new law.

The income tax law of October 3, 1913, places a tax of one per cent upon all net incomes of over $3,000, with an additional tax on incomes of $20,000 or more. For the farmer who receives no stated income, and who often fails to keep accurate account of receipts and expenditures, it is more difficult to calculate his net income.

Furnish Rules

In order that farmers may be posted on the income tax as it may concern them, the following information has been furnished by the internal revenue bureau of the treasury department:

The provisions regarding net incomes of $3,000 apply only to unmarried persons, or to married persons not living with wife or husband. A husband and wife living together are entitled to an exemption of $4,000 on their aggregate income.

In arriving at his net income the farmer should start with his gross income. This would consist of receipts from the sale of products of every description from the farm.

Should Deduct Expenses

From the gross income there should be deducted amounts of money actually paid as expenses for operating the farm and producing the farm products, live stock, etc. This would include hired farm labor, farm supplies purchased that are necessary to carry on the business and not an investment that represents principal, etc. Expenses for repairs on farm property may be deducted. The cost of replacing tools or machinery may also be deducted. No deduction may be made for the cost of additional farm machinery but credit may be allowed for the annual depreciation in the value of such machinery.

The expense of supporting the family, however, can not be deducted from the gross income. Among items for which credit is not allowed are expense for medical attendance, life insurance, insurance on dwelling, store accounts, family supplies, wages of domestic servants, and cost of board, room or house rent for family or personal use.

Only Produce Sold

Farmers are not required to include in their income the produce taken from the farm and consumed by the family. Only produce sold off the farm is to be included. A farmer is not entitled to a deduction for his own labor, or for expense of feeding live stock. He may, however, deduct such items as cost of fertilizer and other supplies.

The law provides that for the year 1913 the tax shall be computed only on the net income for the ten months from March 1st to December 31st, and that returns shall be made on the basis of five-sixths of the year. Therefore, if the net income for the last ten months of 1913 amounts to $2,500 or more a return on form 1040 is required. For the ten months of 1913 every single person is allowed $2,500 exemption and in the case of husband and wife, living together $3,333.33 exemption.

son is allowed $2,500 exemption and in the case of husband and wife, living together $3,333.33 exemption.

MANY ENTER FOR
ELKS' TOURNAMENT

OSHKOSH, Feb. 28.—Unless present indications are misleading, the second annual bowling tournament of the Elks, which will be held in Oshkosh late in March, will be bigger and better in many ways than two-thirds of the state tournaments held in the country. No less than seventy-five teams are expected to compete in the event, which will be confined exclusively to members of the fraternity. Milwaukee alone will enter over twenty teams, while Green Bay, Oshkosh, Madison and Racine will help swell the entry by twenty more clubs. These, in addition to those entered from smaller cities in the state, will swell the entry to an imposing figure.

BOXING BOARD TO SEE NEXT BOUTS

State Commission Will Be at Ringside when Local Fight Club Has
Next Card

The Wisconsin state boxing commission will be present at the next boxing card scheduled by the La Crosse Athletic club, which in all probability will be March 19. The promoters of the local club have received word from the members of the commission of their intention to visit the local club at the time the next card is pulled off.

Negotiations have been entered into with Barney O'Neill's manager for a ten round bout with Joe Welling here on March 19, and while the match has not been definitely settled it is almost certain that the fast Milwaukee man and Welling will meet here on that date.

Joe Bishop is scheduled for one of the parties to the semi-windup and will probably meet De Foo, the clever Red Wing featherweight here. De Foo is considered one of the best men of his weight in this part of the country, and if negotiations are closed for this bout the local fans will have a chance to see Bishop in one of the hardest bouts he has ever fought.

It is the intention of the promoters to use local men, if possible, for the preliminary and as Sampson has shown up to good advantage he will doubtless be one of the men picked for this match. The question now before the promoters is to pick a good man to go against the north side lightweight.

BASEBALL TOO SLOW FOR THE ENGLISH

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Too much happens in baseball that counts for nothing, according to several British newspapers this morning and their reference was to the game played yesterday and not to a national league meeting.

Another terrible charge brought against the national pastime is that it is too slow and now Mike Donlin says he sincerely hopes and prays that the writer that pulled that charge did not base his judgment on the performance of the Giant's centerfielder yesterday, who, by the way, happens to be Sir Mique.

RIVERS AND WELSH AGREE TO FIGHT

LA CROSSE NORMAL LOSES FAST GAME

Stevens Point Wins by the Score of 19 to 18 Last Night; La Crosse and Superior Now Tied

The La Crosse normal basketball team went down to defeat before the Stevens Point quintet at Stevens Point last night by a score of 19 to 18 after one of the hardest fought games of the season. The defeat of the local team came as a surprise after their comparatively easy victory over the same team here a month ago.

This is the second defeat of the season for the La Crosse aggregation and places them on a tie with Superior for first honors of the western division. The local boys have now won three and lost two games. Both Superior and La Crosse have one more game to play, the local team having to meet River Falls in the home gym. Should Superior and La Crosse both win their remaining game, they will have to meet in a post season game to decide honors.

The defeat of the Milwaukee normal by the Oshkosh five last night also leaves the race in the eastern division open and it looks as though a post season game will be necessary to decide the championship of the eastern division. The winners of the two divisions will clash for state honors.

FEDERAL LEAGUE MOGULS TO MEET

Organized Magnates Watching for Action of Outlaw
League at Conference
Today

BY HAL SHERIDAN.
(Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Big league magnates today faced March 1 with fear and trembling. It remains for President Gilmore of the Federals to usher in the last month of winter as a lion or a lamb. Gilmore has called a meeting of the Federals in Chicago today, and every city in the belligerent organization is expected to compete its roster of players. A date also will be set for the opening of the season.

Higher ups in baseball here today professed to believe that the Federal meeting will develop into nothing more or less than another wind jamming fest.

Hatter Wants Cubs

Truly Warner, New York hatter, made the kind remark here that he will probably be the next owner of the Chicago Cubs. Warner returned last night from a trip to Cincinnati and Chicago, and, according to his own admission, has already come to terms with Charles P. Taft for purchase of his fifty-three shares of Cub stock. Mr. Taft, forward.

King a Real Sport

King George has shown himself a "regular fellow" to the world touring Giants-White Sox aggregation. As a matter of fact, forthought, His Majesty sent word to the managers of the teams before their presentation that he intended to wear a derby hat at the game, so they needn't don silk toppers. The king also warned the hearts of the movie operators when he posed for 400 feet of film during the game.

Will Not Conflict

Has "organized" baseball recognized the Federals? Baseball sharps here today saw virtual recognition in an alleged agreement between American association and Federal league magnates to arrange non-conflicting playing dates in Indianapolis and Kansas City, where both leagues have teams.

Packey to Australia

Despite the fact that he "retired" from the fight game when his bout with Mike Gibbons here fell through, Packey McFarland today announced that his retirement will be postponed until after a fighting jaunt to Australia in June. Fans here wonder whether Packey's fiancée will let him fight after he reaches the land of the kangaroo.

A. A. RECOGNIZES THE FEDERALS

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Followers of baseball believed they read between the lines of a story published here on Friday news that organized baseball had virtually "recognized the belligerency" of the Federal league.

The story said that the Federals and the American association leaders had agreed to arrange their playing schedules so that conflicts in the two towns in which they are both represented—Kansas City and Indianapolis—would be avoided.

Such an agreement would indicate that the association, one of the biggest of the leagues in organized baseball, had decided not to make war on the Federals, but rather had concluded to enter into a working agreement.

Philip of Macedonia, after the battle of Chacronea, where he defeated the Greeks, sent a boasting and insolent letter to the King of Sparta. Archidamus, the king, sent this caustic rejoinder: "If thou wilt measure thy shadow, thou wilt find that it hath not increased in size since thy victory."
We try to sympathize with our dumb animals in their afflictions, but somehow it is rather difficult for us to feel very sorry for the common house fly who ventures too far into our paste pot.—Ohio State Journal.

Prior to this time I wish to show YOU, if you are looking for a farm, the farms I have for sale in La Crosse, Trempealeau and Vernon counties. Some of the best farms in the state have been listed with me recently.
